00:51:56 Judy Goodman (she/her/hers): I would love to hear specific examples/stories or sharing personal experiences

01:23:05 Jennifer Chapman: I can't figure out how to raise my hand. Molly, could you call on me for a question?

01:23:24 Molly Mattaini (she/her), Ho-Chunk Land: Yes, I will call on you next Jennifer!

01:27:12 Laura Byland: Thanks for asking this question, Jennifer!

01:27:35 Michael-Ellen (they) Council of the Three Fires Homeland: The Autistic Self-Advocacy Network has a great resource on identity-first language that my organization (Seesaw Theatre) has used in determining what language we use.

01:28:57 Pam Freedy (she/her): Some fantastic reads and connections with artists who identify as disabled. I learn something new everyday...<https://disabilityarts.online/>

01:29:29 Haley, She/Her, O'odham Land: Here is a great resource from ADA
<https://adata.org/factsheet/ADANN-writing>

01:29:47 Haley, She/Her, O'odham Land: Re: Inclusive language

01:29:58 Alex Delare she/her/hers; Lenape: The Museum, Arts and Culture Access Consortium (MAC) offers fantastic resources around language for folks working with people with disabilities. They also offer free professional development workshops throughout the year, now all virtually, which you can participate in. MAC is doing fantastic events in celebration of the 30th Anniversary of the ADA, too! Here is their Resource Page: <https://macaccess.org/resources-2/>
