

AATE's Leaders of Color Institute

A series of national symposiums being held in Utah, New York, Washington, and Texas.

About the Event

AATE's Leaders of Color Institute (LOCI) is a space for arts professionals and administrators who will lead or are currently leading artistic organizations, programs and schools. This dedicated space only for people of color will provide professional development opportunities that include peer exchange and leadership skill development. It is also an opportunity to share your work, successes, and challenges and make new connections with potential collaborators. The LOCI will help shape the next generation of the arts to better reflect the communities' present.
